Fristoe House
Grafton Shop Road
Forest Hill, MD 21050

This brick and stone home is located in Forest Hill between Frogtown and High Point. The house bears a datestone of 1770 and the inscription "H. Wilson." The house was of unusual architectural design for this area, the larger brick unit having had a pent roof, since replaced, and the smaller stone unit having a rainbow roof. The house has been altered drastically, especially on the interior. The spiral staircase which was originally located in the center through hall was torn out during the full scale remodeling in 1938. Window sashes and door framing were replaced and many fireplaces were closed in.

It is believed that the H. Wilson whose name is inscribed in this house's datestone, may be the Henry Wilson who was active in the Nation's fight for independence. Henry Wilson represented Harford County at Maryland's first Constitutional Convention on November 27, 1776. He was a Quaker and both he and his son, Henry, Jr. were active in the Revolutionary War.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This home consists of two units and is located on a lane off Grafton Shop Road in Forest Hill. The Brick and Stone house faces south.

The smaller stone unit, to the west, is one story high. One very small window leads into the attic from the west gable end. That is the only access remaining to this unit's attic. This section is three bays by two.

The uncoursed rubblestone has been whitewashed. Window sashes have been replaced and are now one over one. A door is located on the east bay of both the north and south facades.

The gable flank roof is covered with wood shingles. It is a rainbow roof; its two slopes have a slight bulge or convex profile. A corbeled brick chimney is located on the west inside gable end of the roof. This is a recent construction and is set into an older, wider chimney.

There is no cellar under this unit. On the north facade the unit extends several feet to the east to form an additional room. A door and window are located on the east side and a frame shed covers the entrance.

Inside this unit, the western room is the kitchen. A large cooking fireplace is located on the west wall. The opening was originally quite wide but new brick and stone work has changed that completely. The thick walls are plastered. Floors have tiles over them. Several beaded, board and batten doors are located in this unit.

The brick unit of this home is two stories high and three bays by two. A corbeled brick chimney is located at each inside gable end of the wood shingled roof. This roof replaced the original pent roof in, approximately, 1938. The house is built onto stone foundations.

The brick unit has also been whitewashed with a thick masonry paint. The paint, chipping away in many areas, revealed the Flemish bond pattern on the principle facade. There is a plain watertable. A four row, Flemish bond belt course divides the first and second floors.

The main entrance to this unit is located in the center bay of the south facade. A large eight panel door is present. A four light transom is over this. A one-bay entrance porch here has a shed roof. Windows in this unit have been changed to one over one sashes.

The house is laid out in a classic central through hall floor plan. The interior of the home has been drastically remodeled. The owners seem to have a penchant for shellacked knotty pine.

The fireplace in this unit's west room has been closed up and plastered over. A glass pane was placed over an inscription in the brick fireplace so that the date would still be visible. Inscribed on the brick is the following: H. Wilson 1770.

The knotty pine staircase, visible in this room replaced the original spiral staircase which was torn out in the late 1930's.

The east room, now a bedroom was probably used as a parlor originally. The closed-in fireplace on the east wall is quite wide-approximately seven feet. The mantle has been removed and the entire surface is plastered over. A door on the west wall leads to an area beneath the staircase where the back entrance and the inside entrance to the cellar are also located.

The layout of rooms on the second floor has been altered. There were probably only three rooms originally, but now, the second floor has been chopped up into several small rooms. Several doors are pegged and many H - L hinges are still present. Entrance to the attic is through a closet in the west bedroom. A ladder must be used.

The basement under this unit has had the least amount of change. Fireplace supports are present. There is a plain stone support under the west fireplace. On the east side there is a semi-elliptical supporting arch with brick headers. An outside entrance to the basement is located on the north bay of the east wall.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Brick & ~~stone~~ house, whitewashed.
The house faces south, the ridge line east-west.

A The stone part, to the west, is 1 story,
3 bays x 2 with a very small window
into the attic from the west wall.

A cooking fireplace is capped with a neat brick chimney, new, in the west wall.

B A lean-to roof continues the line of the back of the house across the larger brick house.

C The Brick part, 2 stories, 3 bays x 2,
has a chimney at either end. On stone foundations, beveled, it once carried a pent roof characteristic of most Pennsylvania houses of this age - 1770.

The interior was gutted, for no good reason,
and "brown away" despite efforts to save the reputedly fine paneling, in about 1938.
